Graphisoft's Archicad Wins 'BIM Product of the Year' Thirteenth Year in a Row

With Archicad, BIM professionals can design and deliver projects of any size by integrating people, workflows, and information in real time.

BUDAPEST, November 13, 2023 – Archicad, Graphisoft's award-winning Building Information Modeling (BIM) software solution, has won BIM Product of the Year in the annual Construction Computing Awards. Affectionately known as 'The Hammers,' the Construction Computing Awards are nominated and voted for by industry-wide experts and design professionals to recognize innovative solutions and projects actively deployed and in use today. ☒

Archicad's powerful built-in tools and user-friendly interface make it the most efficient and intuitive BIM software on the market. Featuring out-of-the-box design documentation, one-click publishing, photo-realistic rendering, and best-in-class analysis, Archicad lets architects focus on what they do best: design great buildings.

Released in October, the latest version boasts a brand-new design option solution, professional visualization tools, improved management of complex projects, and advances in open, multidisciplinary design collaboration. Learn more about what's new in Archicad 27.

"This continued recognition of Archicad as the best BIM solution for architecture reinforces our commitment to empowering teams to design great buildings," said Ron Close, Vice President of Marketing Success at Graphisoft.
