Graphisoft Issues Key Update on Transition to Future-Proof Subscription Model

Graphisoft subscriptions offer easy, affordable access to always up-to-date BIM technology and cloud collaboration for architects and designers.

BUDAPEST, November 4, 2025—Graphisoft, the leading Building Information Modeling (BIM) software solution developer for architecture and multidisciplinary design, today announced that its 2025 conversion terms will be extended until March 31, 2026. Other key dates in its multi-year subscription transition program, such as the availability of Archicad perpetual licenses, remain unchanged. Graphisoft also clarified its intentions regarding developing long-term conversion subscription pricing.

As announced in April 2024 and further detailed in September 2024, existing customers holding Archicad perpetual license(s) can purchase additional Archicad perpetual and SSA/FWD licenses and upgrade earlier versions of Archicad through December 31, 2025. Customers are encouraged to contact their local Archicad provider for end-of-sale perpetual purchase options.

Graphisoft has now extended the terms of the 2025 subscription conversion program conditions until March 31, 2026. Customers with SSA/Forward contract terms in Q1 2026 can also choose to renew their contracts for one last cycle (subject to local terms and conditions).

“We understand that price stability and long-term predictability are essential to our customers’ success,” said Daniel Csillag, CEO of Graphisoft. “That’s why we are committed to exercising care and discretion in setting prices – we have no plans for sudden or disproportionate changes after the transition. Unless there are significant shifts in economic or market conditions, we intend to implement modest, predictable annual adjustments to gradually align our conversion subscriptions with the long-term list price.”

Customers are encouraged to visit the SSA/FWD Conversion to Subscription webpage for more details and updates on the subscription conversion program.
